Dear Ms. Jackson:

STAT I am happy to respond to your letter of 31 March 1981 in a positive manner. [redacted] has accepted your invitation and will be pleased to attend the 27th Annual Seminar of the American Society for Industrial Security in New Orleans on Wednesday, 2 September 1981. As Director of Security for the Central Intelligence Agency, he looks forward to serving as a representative on a panel that will include his friend and National Security Agency counterpart, [redacted]

STAT
STAT Your generous offer to assume the cost of travel and hotel accommodations is greatly appreciated, but this Agency will take care of these expenses on a program that serves our mutual best interests. Assuming that [redacted] also accepts your invitation, [redacted] is confident that a joint and appropriate understanding can be worked out as to the need for or degree of clearance screening that may be required.

STAT If any questions develop in connection with the planning for the government security program, please do not hesitate to contact [redacted]

On a personal note, I am gratified that the expertise and professionalism to be found in this Agency is recognized. Thank you for the opportunity to assist in the development of what I am certain will be a successful and productive exercise.

Sincerely,

/s/ William J. Casey
